Early 18th C. Scandinavian Long Table

An early 18th century Scandinavian long table.

A rare, incredibly substantial langbord made from the foundations of 18th-century (and earlier) wooden houses.

Traditionally ceremonial, brought out for events like weddings, funerals, and the summer solstice.

Constructed in pine with a substantial top.

Heavily, heavily patinated with many age old repairs due to hundreds of years of use.

Origin	Scandinavia
